Southeast Asia is a region that today consists of eleven nations: Brunei, Cambodia (Kampuchea), East Timor, Indonesia, Laos, Malaysia, Myanmar (Burma), Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, and Vietnam, each with its own history, cultural and ethnic diversity, and political and socio-economic conditions. Nevertheless, it is a region--between China and India--that possesses many cultural and historical similarities and continuities that make it unique. This course is intended to provide a general introduction to Southeast Asia's past and present. The course is organized chronologically around three broad periods: 1) traditional states and societies (to ca.1830); 2) colonial transformations and indigenous responses (ca.1830-1945); and 3) the emergence of modern nations (since 1945). Within these broad time frames, the course will explore several topics and themes, among them: the origins of indigenous states; religious conversion and practice; ethnicity, social organization, and gender relations; the impact of colonial domination; modern social and economic transformations; responses to colonial rule; the development of nationalist and socialist-communist movements and revolutions; the nature of post-colonial societies and political systems; ethnic conflict and national integration; the impact of Cold War international relations; and U.S. involvement and intervention in the region. Given the size and diversity of the region, the course will concentrate on four Southeast Asian countries: Vietnam, Philippines, Indonesia, and Thailand -- those countries that are the primary research areas of UW-Madison's Southeast Asia program and for which significant resources exist on campus: course offerings (including in languages), library holdings, and study abroad opportunities.

The textbook for the course will be:

The Emergence of Modern Southeast Asia, edited by Norman G. Owen, et al.
Honolulu: University of Hawai'i Press, 2005.

This book is available at the Rainbow Bookstore Cooperative (426 W. Gilman). The textbook will be supplemented with readings that are available through My UW (under Library Reserves and Learn@UW); they are also available at the College Library.

Grades in this course will be based on the following.

- 1) midterm examination (20%): Sept 30 (in class & take-home)
- 2) final examination (40%): Dec 19, 2:45 pm (location: TBA)
- 3) writing project based on reading two works of fiction (20%)
(see attached sheet for details on this project)
- 4) attendance and participation in discussion section (20%)

The midterm is an in-class/take-home exam and the final is an in-class exam as scheduled in the TimeTable; the writing project is also described on the attached sheet below.

REQUIRED WRITING PROJECT

All students in the course are required to write an essay based on two works of fiction from one country of your choice. This writing project -- a five page essay -- will make up 20% of your grade and must be submitted on November 30th or before. You will read two novels or collections of short stories from the list below. Note that the books are organized by countries; select one country and read the two books.

Memories of a Pure Spring, by Duong Thu Huong (Vietnamese)
Sorrow of War, by Bao Ninh (Vietnamese)

Dusk, by F. Sionil José (also titled: Po-on) (Filipino)
When the Rainbow Goddess Wept, by Cecilia Manguerra Brainard (Filipino)

This Earth of Mankind, by Pramoedya Ananta Toer (Indonesian)
Child of All Nations, by Pramoedya Ananta Toer (Indonesian)

Voices from the Thai Countryside, by Samruan Singh, trans by K. Bowie (Thai)
The Lioness in Bloom, various authors, trans by S.F. Kepner (Thai)

These books are available for purchase at the Rainbow Bookstore Cooperative, or can be read in the reserve reading room of the College Library (Helen C. White Building).

What to do? Read the stories and think about the societies depicted and about the issues and themes raised by the authors, particularly those that you find interesting and comparable. There is no single approach or required content for the essay; you will be graded on your ability to construct a coherent essay around the themes you select. This is not a book review project and your essays and the themes you select do not have to relate to the materials or topics presented in the lectures and other readings. The essay should begin with a brief overview of the two books (two paragraphs), followed by your response to what you have read. Other than the first two paragraphs, you are not expected to write on what the books are about; you are expected to find one or two comparable themes and write an essay discussing them. Your response can be personal or academic, but your essay should draw comparatively from the two books and provide a description and analysis of the themes you have selected. The idea is to select issues and themes of interest to you and to write an essay focused on these. To assist you in this effort, some possible issues and themes are suggested below. You can focus on one or more of the themes below, or totally ignore all of them and take your own approach to the books you read.

-  Social Organization (social or class structure, gender relations, formal and informal relationships among people; role of children, the elderly)
-  Economic Conditions (economic activities and pressures of everyday life; who dominates the economies? how do people make a living/survive?)
-  Political Conditions (power relationships; relationships with local, regional, and national governments and the state; role/influence of political leaders; everyday politics of the locality; etc.)
-  Religious Life (role of religion and religious functionaries; various forms of religious practice; the influence of religion on people's everyday lives, etc.)
-  Cultural Life (formal and informal cultural activities -- festivals, ritual ceremonies, games, leisure-time recreation and entertainment; material culture/possessions; lifestyle and daily life; etc.)
-  Major Life Crises and Conflicts
-  The Impact of Outside Events on People's Lives

Writing Project - 2

This project will be discussed in section and the books should be read as early in the course as possible. After the books have been read and you have come up with some ideas about your focus, you are welcome to discuss your ideas with the instructor and the TA. If you have little experience with writing assignments like this, please consult with your teachers early in the course so we can assist you in preparing for your writing project. It is crucial, however, that you read the books first -- as you read, many things to write about will occur to you along the way. We are willing to discuss these with you and to assist you as best we can to get started.

The essays will be graded on the following criteria.

- 1) Your ability to write a concise (two paragraphs) overview of the two books, their general content, locations, time periods, and topics or themes.
- 2) Your ability to pull together interesting and illuminating examples and comparisons from the two works of fiction to support the theme(s) you have selected for your essay.
- 3) Your ability to write a clear and coherent essay (this includes everything from developing your argument to proper spelling and grammar).

Project Specifications:

Format: Typed or Computer Printed
Length: 5 pages (about 2,000 words)
Deadline: November 30, 2010
