

THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN
Department of History

Semester II Year 76-77

COURSE NO.	COURSE TITLE	INSTRUCTOR
395	United States, 1877-1917	Cooper

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course concentrates on the formation of a modern industrial economy and society in the United States, with the attendant problems and power which came from that transformation. Topics include industrialization, changing political issues, radicalism, race relations, imperialism, roles of women and ethnic minorities, and World War I.

LECTURES

MWF 9:55 plus discussion section

WRITTEN ASSIGNMENTS and EXAMINATIONS

for three credits: mid-term, one hour, given in 8th week, final, two hours for four Credits: additional paper

GRADING SYSTEM

REQUIRED READINGS

Hofstadter, Age of Reform
Glad, McKinley, Bryan and the People
Wiebe, Search for Order
Bellamy, Looking Backwards
Sinclair, The Jungle
Link, Woodrow Wilson and the Progressive Era
Mowry, The Era of Theodore Roosevelt
Garraty, The New Commonwealth